

Green Roads to Growth - Danish ideas that create jobs and growth

There is in Denmark a strong attention given to how we can combine the climate challenge and the (green) job creation. Not only politicians are interested, so are the Danish unions:

The United Federation of Danish Workers (3F) has released a study of how to create Green jobs. The study, Green Roads to Growth, is based on interviews with key industry leaders. Also Sonderborgs ProjectZero is portrayed in the publication as a rolemodel for green urban transition. For more information: Green Roads to Growth – Danish ideas that create jobs and growth

The Danish Confederation of Trade Unions (LO) has published an inspiring booklet with 6 case-descriptions on how companies have reduced energy and created new green jobs by involving employees in the process. Sonderborg is represented in the booklet by 2 case-descriptions – Helsam and ProjectZero.
